

January 17, 2006

Welcome to "3rd Wednesday" for the TriBakery group.

Every third Wednesday of the month at the TriBakery group we postpone our normal group discussion so we can grow not only by the content discussed but likewise through the friendships formed. So get something to eat, and something to drink, sit down and introduce yourself to those around you. If you are having trouble finding something to talk about perhaps the song lyrics below could help stir discussion or in the very least they could make you think?

Enjoy,
Kirk

Quote:

"Courage is almost a contradiction in terms. It means a strong desire to live taking the form of a readiness to die. 'He that will lose his life, the same shall save it,' is not a piece of mysticism for saints and heroes. It is a piece of everyday advice for sailors or mountaineers. It might be printed in an Alpine guide or a drill book. This paradox is the whole principle of courage; even quite earthly or quite brutal courage. A man cut off by the sea may save his life if he will risk it on the precipice. He can only get away from death by continually stepping within an inch of it. A soldier surrounded by enemies, if he is to cut his way out, needs to combine a strong desire for living with a strange carelessness about dying. He must not merely cling to life, for then he will be a coward, and will not escape. He must not merely wait for death, for then he will be a suicide, and will not escape. He must seek life in a spirit of furious indifference to it; he must desire life like water and yet drink death like wine..."

G.K. Chesterton, Orthodoxy

January 17, 2006

Welcome to "3rd Wednesday" for the TriBakery group.

Every third Wednesday of the month at the TriBakery group we postpone our normal group discussion so we can grow not only by the content discussed but likewise through the friendships formed. So get something to eat, and something to drink, sit down and introduce yourself to those around you. If you are having trouble finding something to talk about perhaps the song lyrics below could help stir discussion or in the very least they could make you think?

Enjoy,
Kirk

Quote:

"Courage is almost a contradiction in terms. It means a strong desire to live taking the form of a readiness to die. 'He that will lose his life, the same shall save it,' is not a piece of mysticism for saints and heroes. It is a piece of everyday advice for sailors or mountaineers. It might be printed in an Alpine guide or a drill book. This paradox is the whole principle of courage; even quite earthly or quite brutal courage. A man cut off by the sea may save his life if he will risk it on the precipice. He can only get away from death by continually stepping within an inch of it. A soldier surrounded by enemies, if he is to cut his way out, needs to combine a strong desire for living with a strange carelessness about dying. He must not merely cling to life, for then he will be a coward, and will not escape. He must not merely wait for death, for then he will be a suicide, and will not escape. He must seek life in a spirit of furious indifference to it; he must desire life like water and yet drink death like wine..."

G.K. Chesterton, Orthodoxy